

Alternative Careers Resources

There are many sources of information which can help with exploration of wider career options and here are a few to begin with.

Our Deanery Careers pages contain information and links to articles, organisations and information on alternative careers, both related and unrelated to medicine.

<https://careers.walesdeanery.org/>

The NHS Wales careers website has similar resources on this page link:

<http://www.weds.wales.nhs.uk/nhs-wales-careers> search on the link for job roles to find out other careers available across the NHS.

BMJ Careers Online has a wealth of searchable articles on different career options, changing careers and leaving medicine:

<http://careers.bmj.com/careers/advice/advice-overview.html>

To explore wider alternatives look at Prospects, the career planning resource for graduates from all disciplines. Explore different sectors, individual jobs and occupations.

<http://www.prospects.ac.uk>

Other Options for Doctors is an independent online resource for medics who are at a life or career crossroads, hosted by a medical career coach. The site aims to be a source of inspiration and practical guidance on “how to stop wanting things and start engaging in the process of creating them.

<http://otheroptionsfordoctors.com/>

The Medic Footprints organisation supports doctors who are exploring ways of diversifying their medical careers. Their website offers information about careers opportunities and alternative careers conferences.

<http://medicfootprintshttp://www.weds.wales.nhs.uk/nhs-wales-careershttp://www.weds.wales.nhs.uk/nhs-wales-careers.org/career-opportunities/>